

The following chart diagrams the two major tracks (Research Specialty and Design Specialty) and the focus areas of Theory, Environment and Human Behavior, Interior Design Education, Interior Preservation & Restoration and Facilities Management.

Important Note:

Considering the variety of Interior Design undergraduate programs offered throughout the educational community, the MID Program will offer a range of approaches to graduate studies in the discipline, based on the background of each applicant. Specific curricular paths will be determined by accreditation status and administrative housing of the undergraduate degree program.
